Synopsis

"Architects on Stage: Stage and Exhibition Design in the 90's" brings together the best and most recent stage settings and exhibition designs by architects of international prestige such as Frank Gehry, Toyo Ito, Jean Nouvel, Enric Miralles, Daniel Libeskind and Joseph Svoboda, to name a few. The works presented here constitute a broad spectrum of designs for exhibitions of architecture and urbanism, including the work of the designers themselves, for art shows and museum exhibitions, or present some specific subject through the creation of a discourse of their own, free from the need to display any particular object: stands for trade fairs, exhibition designs, ephemeral interventions in the urban space, stage designs for theatre or opera and for major music events.
